Atlas

Atlas

Gaia, the personification of the Earth in Greek mythology; and Atlas, the young titan who was condemned by Zeus to carry the sky on his shoulders, are the protagonists of this pair of designs. As it could not be otherwise, the main characteristic of these products is their round shape, referring to the earth, the element of nature that both gods represent.

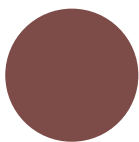

The shapely circular opening of the Gaia & Atlas countertop sinks invites a feel-good experience in any bathroom. The models are available in different sizes and thus as circular or oval designs.

Orion

Orion

Eros and Orion are personalities that represented love in many different ways in Greek mythology. Naturally, this love is translated in KOSMOS into fire, as the element of nature that represents this pair of rectangular-shaped countertop washbasins.

A classic, timeless and rectangular-shaped family of products, that completes the countertop models with a recognizable design for every bathroom.

Helios

Helios

Unique in the Kosmos collection are the designs of Iris and Helios. These wall-mounted washbasins float light and airy like his namesakes the god of the sun (Helios) and the rainbow (Iris) on the wall of the modern bathroom. It is possible to combine their minimalist design with a wide variety of faucets.

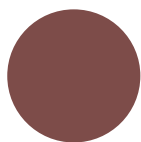

The wall mounting assembly, thanks to a simple metal structure that is hidden in the lower part of the washbasin, makes the final product float on the wall, thus their namesake's gods of the element air Iris and Helios are represented.

Nais

Nais

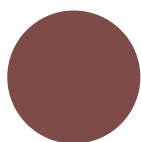

Within the Kosmos collection, Sandhelden designed elegant and classical-shaped bathtubs. Like a water goddess, the beautiful aesthetic of the models Nais und Hydra nestles in any interior.

With these two bathtub designs, Sandhelden achieves to bring the first marketable 3d printed bathtubs to the market, establishing sand as a new manufacturing material. A big milestone for the company that opens up many possibilities in the sanitary sector.
